Author Omar Barghouti & Egyptian Activist, Sahar El-Nadi at Busboys and Poets.

On Friday, April 15th at 6pm, author Omar Barghouti will sign and discuss his book, "Boycott, Divestment, Sanctions: The Global Struggle for Palestinian Rights" and at 8:30pm, Egyptian activist, Sahar El-Nadi, will lead a discussion. Both events are free and open to the public and will take place at Busboys and Poets (1025 5th Street, NW).

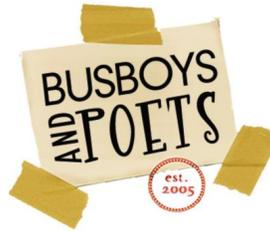

WASHINGTON, D.C. – After months of extended delays and an international public pressure campaign, the U.S. Consulate in Jerusalem has finally granted Omar Barghouti a visa to visit the United States. He has resumed his delayed tour and will be at Busboys and Poets' 5th & K location (1025 5th Street, NW, Washington, DC 20001) on Friday, April 15th at 6 pm to sign and discuss his latest book, "Boycott, Divestment, Sanctions: The Global Struggle for Palestinian Rights". Barghouti is an independent Palestinian commentator and human rights activist. He is a founding member of the Palestinian Campaign for the Academic and Cultural Boycott of Israel (PACBI) and the Palestinian Civil Society Boycott, Divestment and Sanctions (BDS) campaign against Israel.

In this, his latest book, Omar Barghouti makes the case for a rights-based BDS campaign to stop Israel's occupation, colonization, and apartheid against the Palestinian people.

Following Barghouti's presentation, Egyptian activist, Sahar El-Nadi, will speak at 8:30pm at Busboys and Poets, 5th & K and share exclusive footage from the heart of Tahrir Square. She will discuss the use of Tahrir Square creativity as a tool for mass education and facilitating change while explaining the pivotal role women played in the revolution.

Sahar is the creator and director of "Don't Hate, Educate" an award-winning intercultural communication project. She's a writer, photographer and public speaker, as well as a creativity and communication instructor. A Q&A will follow Sahar's talk.
